

- It is important to avoid power struggles with disruptive students. Make Your Day helps you do exactly that. But there are certain things you must do to make the job easier for you.
  - Be clear in your directions and what you expect from your students.
  - Repeat your expectations as each phase of the class progresses.
  - Be firm, fair and consistent as you apply the strategies of Make Your Day.
  - Remember: Your lack of emotions and reactions to students behavior allows for the success of the Make Your Day Curriculum!
